

ROAD SAFETY

The following report was recently made to Simpson Motors and we are sharing the details with you, with the kind permission of Debbie Simpson.

On Tuesday, a lady in a Suzuki Liana was on her way to work at the airport on the highway. She pulled to the side of the road because she did not like how the car was driving.

A vehicle drove up behind her and a man got out to assist and told her that as he was driving behind her, he noticed her wheel wobbling. He said he was Jason from Simpson Motors. He was not wearing uniform and when asked about this, said he was on sick leave as he had gotten into an altercation at work and got cut up!

So 'Jason' then proceeded to check the car, jack it up and even called the Parts Department asking for pricing on parts which he recommended that the car needed. By the way he did call Parts and we did give him prices and there was an enquiry open on this car.

He told her it would cost $500 and he would drop her to work, collect the parts, fix the car and get it back to her! Of course in spite of some of our failings, we are still looked on as the company that cares and she did not doubt his sincerity. It also helped that a Defense Force truck had pulled up and the driver seemed to know this guy and validated that he was a mechanic! 'Jason' even gave her his cell number. So she gave him the money and he drove off with the car.

The car was eventually found yesterday evening, abandoned in good order, with the key very nicely placed under the mat, but the $500 nowhere in sight of course.

We ask that you take due care in your commute to work daily and ensure that you have a sound plan in case of emergency that includes the contact numbers for your mechanic, the phone number for road side emergency and/or a tow company.

Wise Financial Thinking for Life

*Human Resources Department
September 10, 2008*